Willkie Came Out Strong For Jewish National Home in Palestine

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

NEW YORK—A vigorous endorsement of the demand for a Jewish National Home in Palestine was given this week by Wendell Willkie, in a message sent to a mass meeting at Carnegie Hall here to mark the 25th anniversary of the issuance of the Balfour Declaration by the British government on Nov. 2, 1917.

In his message Mr. Willkie pointed out that his plea was based upon a survey made on his recent visit to Palestine in the course of his world tour as President Roosevelt's emissary.

"Your case for a National Home has always rested upon historic rights and international law," Mr. Willkie stated. "Hitler's program of extermination of the Jewish people has made it a case for the conscience of mankind. The doors of Palestine will have to be opened for the homeless Jews of Central and Eastern Europe who will survive this war. The extent of that emigration must be measured by the needs of the Jewish people. While one cannot foresee the exact organization which will follow this war, the establishment of a Jewish National Home in Palestine in fulfillment of the promise contained in the Balfour Declaration must find its rightful place in the new world order of tomorrow."

Second Lt. Julian Kiser was home for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kiser, last week prior to going to Harrisburg, Pa., where he has been enrolled in the Intelligence Division school.

Dr. Council Carries On Despite Loss of Member

An unusual and fine tribute was paid last week to the memory of Ruth Weil. The Council of Jewish Juniors had scheduled a Halloween party for the servicemen for Saturday night and Ruth, as chairman of the affair, had already started getting plans under way. When she became so ill her fellow-Junior Council members wanted to call off the event but publicity and invitations had already gone out, so it would have meant handing over this responsibility to the busy U. S. O. office.

Rather than shirk their responsibility or disappoint the boys who are giving their lives in our service, the whole organization responded magnificently to the appeal of its president, Harriet Tamler, and provided the kind of evening that Ruth would have enjoyed and arranged had she been spared.

HILLEL SPEAKER

DR. A. L. SACHAR

Dr. Sachar to Speak at I. U. Hillel Pilgrimage

Special
BLOOMINGTON—Hillelites at Indiana University and delegates to the B'nai B'rith Pilgrimage to Indiana University are looking forward eagerly to the visit of Dr. A. L. Sachar, National Director of B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundations during the Pilgrimage on Nov. 13, 14 and 15. This will mark the first time that Dr. Sachar has visited the Indiana campus since the founding of the Hillel Foundation here four years ago.

The Pilgrimage is being held in conjunction with the State B'nai B'rith Lodges and Auxiliaries of Indiana and Kentucky. In connection with this event, the I. U. Hillel Foundation is also receiving the co-operation of the University Committee on Religion and the Student Religious cabinet.

A meeting of the Indiana-Kentucky State B'nai B'rith Association will be held at 10 o'clock on Sunday morning, Nov. 15, at Hillel.

Luncheon at 1 o'clock on Sunday afternoon in the Union Building, at which there will be several prominent speakers, will be followed by a campus-wide religious convocation at 3 p. m. in Alumni Hall. Dr. Sachar will be the featured speaker at this event. The subject will be: "Our Rendezvous With Destiny."

TOWN CRIER WANTED LIKE ANYTHING TO GET OVER to the Indianapolis Hebrew Congregation last Friday night where Rabbi Goldblatt delivered a sermon on Zionism. But because the head of the house was one of the hostesses at Beth El that night, I had no choice. Rabbi Goldblatt is a member of the board of the Indianapolis District, while Rabbi Feuerlicht is one of the leading opponents of Zionism in the rabinate, and was one of the prime movers of the group who recently issued that statement decrying political Zionism.

HENRY FELDMAN, Aleph Godol of the North Side A. Z. A. chapter, Junior Order of B'nai B'rith, goes into the armed service Nov. 14. Henry has been a tower of strength to the A. Z. ## PRIVATE FIRST CLASS JACK FALK AND PETS

MING—SNOW WHITE—PATSY—MIKE

Not so very long ago a stray dog by the name of Brownie, wandered into Ft. Harrison in search of a bone, and promptly was recruited by Pfc. Jack Falk, a soldier stationed there, to play mother to six orphan puppies. Brownie was a male collie about a year old.

As the story goes, prior to this time, Pfc. Falk found a mother dog around the reception center trying in vain to find food for her litter of seven puppies. Jack pitched in to help feed the puppies but was left their sole guardian and provider a few days later when the mother died of previous undernourishment.

It was then that Pfc. Falk spied Brownie in his quest for food; he took the dog off to one side and talked to him just like he would a human being. It was up to him, Pfc. Falk told Brownie, to raise the pups. He says he was sure the dog understood, for he adopted the pups, and was very particular about their health and welfare.

B'rith to work with the boys, this year the list includes Dave Klain, Jack Pozner, Billy Meyers, Jr., Bob Schwab, Bill Borman and Al Rosenberg.

TOWN CRIER learns that the Everett Orgatron, known as the Melvin Unger Memorial, has arrived at Beth El, although it has not as yet been installed. It will probably be dedicated Thanksgiving night at a city-wide Thanksgiving affair at which the Beth El Men's Club will be host to the community at large. It is hoped that Claude Pepper, fiery Florida Senator, can be secured as principal speaker for the occasion. Also while on the subject of Beth El, Town Crier can whisper to you, if you don't say that I said it, that the Congregation may soon add another member to its professional staff, which already is the largest of any congregation in the State, and includes now Rabbi Chodos, Cantor Glass, and Max Chomsky, the Educational Director. Town Crier could tell you more but is afraid you can't keep a secret.

Work Called For and Delivered

ALTHOUGH THE COMMUNAL Building will definitely open next weekend as announced elsewhere in this issue, a survey is being made by a nationally known Jewish social worker to determine the need for a Jewish center on the South Side. The report should be ready by about the first of the year, but any recommendations contained in it, or any action resulting from these recommendations will not be implemented this year. Although the building has been closed since last Spring, it will definitely reopen, with the director an out-of-town social worker, whose name will be announced next week.

THE CONFUSION ABOUT THE Sergt. Aaron Moses of Monroe, Ind., who stopped up the hole in the gas line on that bomber with his hands, seems to be cleared up now. He's from Monroe, Louisiana, and not at all from Indiana. Rabbi Julian Feibelman in his Sinai Temple (New Orleans) Bulletin claims him, so I suppose now the hero is Jewish after all.

TOWN CRIER should say something about the splendid impression Rabbi Chodos, new spiritual leader of Beth El, has made on the community. Even the Reform group in the community have praised his stand on communal questions very highly, and as far as the membership of Beth El, it can be said conservatively that they have "gone overboard" about him. Could it all be because he has a son named "Gabriel." Quite a humorist I am, eh?

DAN FRISCH who really hates any personal publicity, is home ill in bed. The election meeting of the Beth El board, where Mr. Frisch is president, has been postponed while Mr. Frisch recuperates. In New York Mr. Frisch overdid himself, and wore himself out by attending sessions until the small hours of the morning and then arising bright and early to attend breakfast seminars which started at 8:30. The Indianapolis delegation which would always adjourn from 11 p. m. on to Bert Sicanoff's room for a little recreation, hardly saw Mr. Frisch except as he went

DO YOUR CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NOW

Avoid Congestion on Transit System in December

Indianapolis Railways, in cooperation with the Merchants Association, is suggesting that Xmas buyers do their Xmas shopping as early as possible in order to reduce, as far as possible, the Xmas rush on the trolleys and in the stores during December.

Ordinarily, there is a great influx of transit riders on the local system in December as housewives and others make their shopping trips about the city. Likewise there is congestion in the stores.

Now that the system is carrying thousands of war workers, for whom adequate transportation is essential to the war effort, it is hoped that the Xmas shopping load can be spread throughout November, as well as December, so that war workers will not be inconvenienced.

Indianapolis Railways suggests that shopping trips be made after 10 a. m. in the morning, and that

AL SEGAL Speaks On

PARADE

THE OTHER SUNDAY Mr. Segal marched with the Catholics of his town in their Holy Name parade. He happened to be on assignment as reporter to write about the parade and a Catholic friend, Mr. Horback, said come march along with us.

"Will they let a Jew into this?"

Mr. Horback snorted as if he thought the question were insulting. He is a gentleman who doesn't split theological hairs. He knows God is everybody's Father and why shouldn't a Jew march along with Catholics who were honoring His Holy name.

(The brotherhood might come much more quickly if proud and jealous theologians of all the varieties would let us all alone and not confuse our simple hearts.)

Mr. Horback seemed to be feeling more brotherly than usual on this occasion, since he was about to go marching for the sake of the Fatherhood of God. He took Segal's arm . . . "Come!"

"All right!"

Mr. Segal thought it was a grand idea, a Jew marching with the Catholics for the sake of the Holy Name! True, the Catholics included Jesus in the Godhood but Mr. Segal couldn't quarrel with that. What difference did it make anyway that some men said God was this and other men said God was that, if they all agreed on the point that God was the Father in whom was the light of all good and whose loving kindness was for all the children whether they were white or black or whether they believed this or that of Him.

Mr. Horback pinned on Segal the badge of the Church of Our Mother of Sorrows of which he is a parishioner. Mr. Segal fell into line. What particularly pleased him that none of the Catholics with whom he marched saw anything incongruous in the fact of a Jew going along with them. He could have expected some good natured quipping, for a number of these people were friends and acquaintances who knew he was not of their religion.

It was just "Hello, there, Segal," and no questions at all as to what he was doing there, as if no man who marched with them for God's sake could be alien to their faith. They took him in and they marched away.

He guessed he was the only Jew who ever had marched in a churchly pageant of the Catholics. The band struck up "God Bless America". The thousand feet of the sons of the Mother of Sorrows tramped in joyous time to the heart-beat of the grateful Jew by whom "God Bless America" was written.

Mr. Segal, whose tired old eyes are always searching for gleams of brotherhood, practically gloated. He thought this certainly looked like an intimation of brotherhood. He, the Jew, marching along with the Catholics in an assertion of faith in the eternal God and a Jew's song inspiring the feet of the marchers!

Mr. Segal was glad to be marching along. Since, as everybody is sure, brotherhood must come out of these dreadful times, he might as well begin to get in step now. It was all right to start practicing brotherhood against the day of mankind's big parade. Mr. Segal's heart likes to go questing on brave dreams. His feet were stepping high.

What does a Jew think about when he marches in a Catholic parade? Mr. Segal himself is a fellow whose connection with the Jewish press has directed his mind toward a talent for making a Jewish problem almost out of every situation. He was, in fact, giving his mind earnestly and Jewishly to this matter of his marching with the Catholics.

First of all, he was wondering how many Jews could be gotten out for a parade for God or for any other religious concept. (Being a man who doesn't like to specialize in the faults of Jews he was also wondering how many Protestants would rise up to march for God on a Sunday, or, for that matter, any other day.)

These were 50,000 Catholics marching for God. Mr. Segal could well guess that it would be an exceptional victory for God if 1,000 of the 20,000 Jews of his town came out in the bright sunlight of an October day, to make a public showing for God.

He guessed that if it were proposed to have a Jewish parade for God controversy would arise: Should Jews let down their dignity so far as to make a public demonstration of their faith? Jews, it would be said shouldn't make themselves conspicuous in the dazzling glory of God.

"Jews shouldn't be publicly seen as Jews". "Jews should be careful and stick to the shady side of the street where they won't be noticed."

"Jews shouldn't stick their necks out".

Mr. Segal, who was for the hour one of the Catholics, couldn't but help feel envious of the full freedom they allowed their consciences. There was Mr. Horback who was marching beside him. Mr. Horback hadn't any problems to restrain him from a frank, free and whole-hearted public assertion of the reality of God. His people didn't have to hold meetings to decide whether it would be all right to go marching for their faith.

Yes, Mr. Segal was for the hour one of an accepted people who don't have to mind what others may think of them. True, Catholics aren't liked by everybody either but they are numerous and strong and they could publicly march in a gallant assertion of their faith. The crowds on the sidewalks applauded them.

Mr. Segal felt very uncomfortable to be even for an hour an adopted member of an accepted people. He wondered if he would feel so brave to march those streets for Jehovah and for Torah under the Shield of David blazing on a multitude of banners. (The Catholics were carrying their churchly emblems.)

He had a whimsical idea: There may yet come a day when all men of all faiths will march together in a Holy Name parade for the honor and glory of God who is the Father of the brotherhood. And what will it matter from which angle each looks at God. They will ask only have we not all one Father and none will ask is it safe to go marching for my faith in the streets?

Mr. Segal's feet were going along in time with all the others, as in a fellowship. The platoon in which he marched made a straight line of men marching shoulder to shoulder. He could feel Jewishly fulfilled in the Catholic parade for God.

THE EDITOR'S CHAIR:

Every once in a while I'll be stopped on the street or at meetings by someone who'll start off by declaring their disillusionment and disappointment about me and The Post and our courage. Why didn't you write a scathing editorial about the Talmud Torah situation, or are you afraid to criticize the failure of the Kirshbaum Forum to include Jewish speakers in its schedule, they ask.

I don't mind criticism, and I am so used to sticking my chin out, that another clip to that delicate spot won't make me any more groggy. But I want to make a declaration. The pages of The Post are open to letters from those who object to practices in this community and state. If you guys mean what you say, then how about putting it in writing, signing your name and sending it on. Stick your neck out, if you really are sincere. If I believe your contentions are valid, I may comment myself, but the next time you boil up inside about this or that, don't transfer your anger to me or this paper, just give your own intestinal fortitude a test by deciding whether or not you'd be willing to put your identity to whatever axe you have to grind.

I understand that Rabbi Taxay is back home in Terre Haute, having returned from the Chaplain's school at Harvard University because of some previously undetected physical condition.

Mrs. Archibald Silverman, Hadassah leader who recently returned from England, will tour the larger Indiana Jewish communities sometime around the first of December. She will appear in Indianapolis, and probably South Bend, Fort Wayne and Evansville as guest of the local Zionist Districts. Dates for her appearances will be announced soon.

Remember the Max Gerber whose prodigious (word very accurately used) efforts made possible the present B'nai Israel Temple in Kokomo. Well he's now engaged in another project. For several years the Negroes of Kokomo have been turned back at every door as they sought to get under way a project for a community Center. Well they went Monday to Mr. Gerber's door, and Tuesday Mr. Gerber had already called a luncheon of the business and industrial leaders of Kokomo and the drive got started. The goal is $75,000 to $100,000 and we'll bet the Post against the price of a one-year renewal that the money will be raised and pronto.

I drove over to Kokomo last Tuesday and then to Muncie last (Continued in last Column)

Gas Rationing and Friday Night Services

GAS RATIONING could have a disastrous effect on synagogue attendance in Indiana, what with in almost every instance the membership living at considerable distance from their House of Worship, but this need not necessarily be so. In fact it is quite possible with a general realization of what the problem is that there may be a resurgence of attendance, instead of what might be expected, a disastrous falling off.

There has been no published report as yet of the effects of gas rationing on attendance in those cities in the East where four gallons has been the weekly quota for some time now, but that does not mean that no news is good news. Nor does it indicate anything either way for us in Indiana.

In order to be able to attend Friday night services, for instance, it will be necessary for families at a distance from the synagogue and temple to join into clubs so that gasoline will be conserved. Why not then divide the entire membership into such groupings, with none left out, so that in addition to the special pressures which are exerted to bring members to services, there will be the additional push of the other one or two couples who depend on the one car for transportation. Also it is quite possible that there could be some type of organized mobilization, with captains and majors, etc.

In this way, instead of the handicap that is generally feared gas rationing might be to synagogue attendance (Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman in St. Louis has already cancelled Friday night services) the factor can be turned into a boon instead of a calamity.

Pass The Ammunition

THEY'VE PASSED another one of those resolutions.

Granted that the passing of resolutions is a democratic procedure, but why overlook the last part of the injunction, "Praise the Lord and Pass the Ammunition".

For the nth time a group of the Council of Jewish Welfare Funds and Federations meeting in Peoria, Ill., approved a resolution which in effect asks the Civic Protective bodies to unite into one functional agency. It would seem that after having passed such a resolution for about ten or twenty times, this organization would decide that words are not enough.

The Anti-Defamation League, the American Jewish Committee and the American Jewish Congress, the three organizations identified most widely with civic protective work in the Jewish field, are still going their own way. There isn't any more duplication in the work of these groups than there is in parallel highways to the same destination. Everyone realizes this. Everyone agrees that something ought to be done.

But is passing resolutions year after year, and month after month the thing that ought to be done?

The Cincinnati Welfare Fund which held up for a while its $25,000 allocation to these groups last year because of this duplication and waste, didn't think so.

Couldn't be the type of leadership in the C. J. W. F., could it? How about shifting the emphasis to the last part of the song title?

Willkie Statement Boon For Indiana Zionists

WENDELL WILLKIE'S vigorous endorsement of Palestine as the Jewish National Home should be made capital of in Willkie's home state, Indiana. Because Mr. Willkie is a fellow Hoosier, and because he seems to have earned a reputation for fairness and honesty almost unlike any other man in public life today, his whole and complete espousal of the cause of Zionism should be used by Indiana Zionists to enlist in their ranks the many unaffiliated today.

The membership drive being planned by the local District might now very fittingly be called a Willkie Drive in honor of the backing the cause has now gained as the result of Mr. Willkie's words.

The State Zionist Districts should on their own part send messages to Mr. Willkie expressing their gratification at the stand taken by him.

Mr. Willkie's statement, addressed to the Balfour Day mass meeting last week in Carnegie Hall in New York declared:

"Your case for a national home has always rested on historic rights and international law. Hitler's program of extermination of the Jewish people has made it a case for the conscience of mankind. The doors of Palestine will have to be opened for the homeless Jews of Central and Eastern Europe who will survive this war. The extent of that immigration must be measured by the needs of the Jewish people. While one cannot foresee the exact organization which will follow this war the establishment of a Jewish National Home in Palestine in fulfillment of the promise contained in the Balfour Declaration must find its rightful place in the new world of tomorrow."

Current Comment

Parents Are Queried by the Temple Beth-El Bulletin, of Detroit.—What Does Being a Jew Mean to Your Child? Is the answer positive or Negative? Is it merely an inheritance—like the color of his eyes? Is he a Jew only because you happen to be Jews?—OR—Is he a Jew because, knowing what Judaism means, he chooses to be a Jew? A great Jew once said: "I am sorry I was born a Jew. I would rather be a Jew by choice."

Is it obedience to a series of prohibitions for which he has or knows no warrant, and which he sees more honored in the breach than in the observance?—OR—Is it adherence to a progressive, evolving, modern Judaism, related to today's problems and way of life? Is it because Judaism is a rational, liberal religion, developing strong convictions, and sturdiness of character?

Is it a misfortune—an easy excuse for his failures—the explanation for the rebuffs life gives to Jew and Gentile alike?—OR—Is it a tower of strength—the source whence he derives the answer to prejudice,—and the justification for his existence, and his contribution to human culture?

To achieve a positive Judaism, your child needs Religious Education. It is the only worthwhile Jewish influence of his life. Send your child to our Sunday and Hebrew Schools, and to the Alumni—education for children from kindergarten to college age.

20 YEARS THIS WEEK AGO

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

By Jewish Telegraphic Agency

LONDON—The Evening Standard reports that Lord Balfour is prepared to enter the new cabinet of Prime Minister Bona. Law in order to be in a position to defend the Zionist policy. At the same time former Colonial Secretary Winston Churchill warned Prime Minister Law and Foreign Secretary Curzon that they may not lightly cast off British responsibilities in the Middle-Eastern Countries, particularly Palestine.

ROME—Signor Mussolini, the Fascist leader who is virtually dictator of Italy, demands the revoking of all mandates for countries previously forming part of the Turkish Empire.

Congress Women Make Sewing, Selling Records

SOUTH BEND—Another shipment for Russian and British War Relief was on its way as 24 pairs of knitted woolen stockings, a large number of padded blankets made from men's suitings and swatches and a dozen sweaters were shipped from here by the local group of the Women's Division of the American Jewish Congress. Since June this small group of women have sent 70 pairs of the heavy knitted socks to the Russian War Relief alone, it was announced.

The local group is also engaged in selling bonds and stamps, a new project, and have reported over $1,500 in sales already. The project was initiated on Oct. 9, with Mrs. Ida Sandock as chairman, and acts as a special delivery service to outlying stores.

South Side Chairmen Are Announced

Mrs. Hiram Forman, 2810 Washington Blvd., and Mrs. Isaac Morris, 1125 Union St., have been appointed chairman and co-chairman respectively of membership for the South Side by the Ladies Auxiliary of the Joseph and Anna Borinstein Home for the Aged, it was announced this week. Mrs. Harry Freeman, 3603 Washington Blvd., is membership treasurer, and dues should be mailed directly to her, it was said.

The Auxiliary's first large open meeting has been set for Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 24 at Kirshbaum Center.

Wednesday with the I. Gareks for the B'nai B'rith meetings there, and met all my old friends from four communities, as Marion was Kokomo's guest and Anderson was Muncie's guest. Before I forget I should mention that Mrs. Garek is charming and lovely. Having met and known Mrs. Garek and knowing Mrs. Lew Sutin, I just wonder if it could be that the District presidents are selected for their better halves.

Muncie has completed its annual Jewish drive, and raised the very fine amount of $10,500. Two Portland, Ind., non-Jews contributed $1,000 of this sum voluntarily, I am told.
